Bandung is the capital of West Java and the fourth-largest city in Indonesia. It is known as Paris van Java (Paris of Java) by the Dutch Colonial for its resemblance to Paris and European atmosphere back in the colonial times. Bandung also has another nickname as Kota Kembang or Flower City because Bandung has a lot of flowers. Nestled between three mountains, Bandung is well known for its cool and calming weather. Bandung is also popular for its fashion and culinary. Bandung is the home of Asian-African Conference back in April 1955, where 29 nations' leader gathered to discuss their peace and third world's role in Cold War as well as decolonization and economy development.
AIESEC in Bandung was established in 1989 with members that consist of students from all universities in Bandung. AIESEC in Bandung has contributed significantly to the West Java province by conducting social projects that focus on many aspects to develop potential resources, such as the environment, education, culture, and entrepreneurship.

AIESEC is a global platform for young people to explore and develop their leadership potential. We are a non-political, independent, not-for-profit, global youth-led organization striving to achieve peace and fulfillment of humankind’s potential by activating leadership qualities in youth through learning from practical experiences in challenging environments.
iGreen Project is AIESEC in Bandung's only environment-oriented project, aimed to raise environmental awareness and understanding among its participants. We aim to promote environmental sustainability through cross-cultural interactions. iGreen Project promotes the United Nations 13th Sustainable Development Goal (SDG), Climate Action, through its activities. iGreen Project is open for local and international volunteers.
