The workshop deepens the content of the lecture and allows us to engage in an exchange with each other. In an exchange of case studies, we will get to know different factors and perspectives for evaluating individual situations. We want to deal with recognizing typical perpetrator techniques. We also show what contact structures there are at and outside the university and how you can behave as a bystander. The goal is to provide students with the necessary knowledge and information on the one hand and to offer concrete options for action on the other.

Basics of raising awareness

- Arrival and introduction to the topic
- Case studies with exchange: forms of sexual harassment, including input as a summary (contact points at the university)

Recognizing classic techniques used by perpetrators (“It’s not that grey”)

- Input about techniques
- Case Study „At the university“

Options for Action

- Response options for those affected
- External (and internal) contact points
- Opportunities to act as a witness: bystander interventions

Ending

- Farewell & feedback
